Lisa received her Juris Doctor from the Faculty of Law at Thompson Rivers University (TRU). During law school, she served as an editor for the TRU Law Review and worked as a research assistant to Professor Daleen Millard, Dean of TRU Law. Lisa also represented TRU at the 2024 B.C. Law Schools Competitive Moot as a member of the winning team. Additionally, she volunteered with Amici Curiae (Friends of the Court) through Pro Bono Students Canada.

Prior to law school, Lisa obtained her Bachelor of Commerce from the Sauder School of Business at the University of British Columbia, specializing in Organizational Behaviour and Human Resources. She worked for technology companies in Vancouver for over seven years, initially as a human resources professional and later as a legal and business analyst.
