

Rachel May

Articling Student

Toronto

(416) 862-5974

rmay@osler.com

Rachel graduated from the JD program at Queen’s University Faculty of Law. Prior to attending law school, Rachel obtained her Bachelor of Arts from Western University, with a major in Psychology, and a Master of Public Policy from the University of Toronto.

During law school, she took on the role of Managing Editor of Articles at the Queen’s Law Journal, served as a caseworker at the Queen’s Prison Law Clinic, and worked as a research assistant for Professors Colin Grey and Sharry Aiken.

Community Involvement

- Academic Tutor, Queen’s University Faculty of Law
- Prison Law Clinic Caseworker
- Volunteer Swim Instructor at SwimAbility

Credentials

Education

- Queen’s University, JD
- University of Toronto, Master of Public Policy
- Western University, Bachelor of Arts

Languages

- English