Lindsay is an associate in the Disputes Group of our Vancouver office. She maintains a general litigation practice with a focus on complex commercial litigation, environmental matters, and regulatory litigation.

Lindsay has appeared as counsel before all levels of court in British Columbia and has experience handling witnesses and evidence at trial.

Lindsay has a keen attention to detail and knack for dealing with complex facts. She has experience in a range of areas including business disputes, class actions, construction disputes, environmental matters, fraud claims, injunctions, professional regulation, and securities matters. Her experience spans a variety of industries including construction, mining, real estate development, media, transportation and logistics, and professional services.

Prior to her legal career, Lindsay practiced as a senior associate in a public accounting firm where she provided clients with a range of services including strategic business advice. She continues to hold a CPA, CMA designation and leverages her accounting background in her litigation practice to provide clients with strategic and practical legal advice.

Lindsay received her JD with Distinction from the University of Alberta in 2015, where she received numerous awards for academic achievement and leadership. Prior to joining Osler, Lindsay practiced at another major Canadian law firm in Vancouver.
