Areas of Expertise

Financial Services

Shahab is an associate in Osler’s Financial Services group in the Toronto office. His practice includes a broad range of commercial financings, such as domestic and cross-border lending, acquisition financing, asset-based lending, private credit, securitization, and project financing.

Shahab joined the firm as a summer student and subsequently completed his articles, rotating through the Financial Services, Corporate, and Tax groups, and completing a secondment at a national bank focused on derivatives.

While completing his JD, Shahab served as a Dean’s Fellow and as Outreach Coordinator for the Fashion Law Society, where he was actively engaged in student mentorship, sponsorships, and external relations.

Prior to law school, Shahab worked as a financial services manager at a national bank and co-founded Superior Learning, a private tutoring company that leverages innovative technology to match students with their ideal tutors for personalized one-on-one support.

Community Involvement

- Served as a Dean’s Fellow at Osgoode Hall Law School and held executive roles with the Real Estate & Infrastructure Student Association and the Fashion Law Society
- Co-Founded and served as President of Superior Learning, a private tutoring agency that uses technology to match students with personalized one-on-one support

- Supported non-profit and charitable organizations, including Lumacare and the IC Youth Organization, by assisting with marketing initiatives and sponsorship development
